2017 was a year of change at the Sauk City Public Library. We said goodbye to several dedicated library board trustees, who had served the library for a combined 106 years. We welcomed new trustees, who jumped in ready to help us support our mission of providing innovative services to Sauk Prairie residents. In keeping with the Summer Library Program theme of Build a Better World, we tried to do just that. We provided a record number of library programs at the library and around town. Through the Libraries Transform project, community leaders from several businesses and organizations helped us engage our community and promote the library's offerings to area residents. In the fall, we updated and redesigned the entire library—making room for more seating, doubling the size of the children's area and creating a new space for teens.
